Marie Delmas

Marie Delmas is a French art director and visual development artist with over 15 years of experience in the animation industry.

She graduated with a degree in 2D Animation from Émile Cohl in Lyon, France. Her graduation short film, The Headgear, won the PISAF Grand Prize in 2008, earning her a one-year scholarship to Vancouver Film School, where she completed the Digital Character Animation program in 2009 and expanded her 2D background into CGI.

Marie began her professional career as an animator before moving into visual development, with a strong focus on background design, color keys, and lead artistic roles across pre-production and production.

From 2020 to 2023, she served as Art Director on Netflix Animation's series Spirit Rangers, shaping the show's core visual language and main designs while overseeing its artistic direction throughout production.

The series received multiple industry recognitions, including Emmy and Annie Awards nominations, while Marie's own work earned her two consecutive Annie Awards nominations for Best Character Design in TV/Media in 2023 and 2024.

She also received several Concept Art Awards nominations in Series Visual Development and Series Environment, winning the Environment category in 2023, followed by another Series Environment nomination in 2024.

She is currently developing The Luminions, an original animated IP she has been shaping over many years.
