Why culture?

Culture is ‘inherited ethical habit’, a compound of images, habits, and social opinions that are arational, and ‘incapable of being systematized into universal laws’.

(F. Fukuyama, Trust: The Social Virtues and the Creation of Prosperity, New York 1995)

Religions in India

Ayodhya (Uttar Pradesh)

Key concepts in Hinduism since the Upaniṣads

- duḥkha ‘existential suffering’
- The world is change: jagat ‘what moves’, prakṛti ‘transformation’
- A key question: is there a universal ‘true/reality’ (satya)?
- How to define brahman: tad ‘that’, tad ekam ‘the one’, tad anantam ‘the unlimited’, nirguṇa ‘lacking any quality’...
- saṃsāra ‘cycle of rebirth’
- mokṣa ‘liberation from the cycle of rebirth’
- ātman ‘the part of brahman that is in each human being’

The three ways to liberation since the Bhagavadgītā

- jñānayoga ‘yoga of knowledge’,
- karmayoga ‘yoga of (unselfish) action’,
- bhaktiyoga ‘yoga of devotion’.

The four aśramas (stages of life)

- brahmacārin ‘student’,
- gṛhastha ‘householder’,
- vanaprastha ‘hermit’,
- saṃnyāsin ‘ascet’

The four purusharthas (fundamental goals of life)

- moksha 'delivrance',
- dharma 'duty',
- artha 'wealth',
- kama 'love'

Some key concepts of Hinduism

- Dharma 'religious duty':

svadharma (conduct that is right for one's jati or station)

*ashramadharm*a (conduct that is right for his stage of life)

*kuladharm*a (conduct that is right for his own family)

*appadharm*a (conduct that is right in moment of crisis)

Castes in India: religious basis

Puruṣasūkta (RV 10.90) [transl. by R. Griffith]:

11 When they divided Puruṣa how many portions did they make? What do they call his mouth, his arms? What do they call his thighs and feet?

12 The Brahman was his mouth, of both his arms was the Rājanya made. His thighs became the Vaiśya, from his feet the Śūdra was produced.

Castes in India: religious basis

Bhagavadgītā 41-44 (transl. by J. Mascaro):

[41] The works of Brahmins, Kṣatriyas, Vaishyas, and Shudras are different, in harmony with the three powers of their born nature.

[42] The works of a Brahmin are peace; self-harmony, austerity, and purity; loving-forgiveness and righteousness; vision and wisdom and faith.

[43] These are the works of a Kṣatriya: a heroic mind, inner fire, constancy, resourcefulness, courage in battle, generosity and noble leadership.

[44] Trade, agriculture and the rearing of cattle is the work of a Vaishya. And the work of the Shudra is service.

Castes in India: religious basis

Law Code of Manu [transl. by G. Buhler]

2.155. The seniority of Brahmanas is from (sacred) knowledge, that of Kshatriyas from valour, that of Vaisyas from wealth in grain (and other goods), but that of Sudras alone from age.

Castes in India

Upper castes (dvija 'twice born')	brahmans priests
	kṣatriyas 'warriors'
	vaiśyas 'merchants, cattle-herders and artisans'
Low caste	śūdras 'servants'
No caste	dalits

Indian constitution and castes

- 15. (1) The State shall not discriminate against any citizen on grounds only of religion, race, caste, sex, place of birth or any of them.
- (2) No citizen shall, on grounds only of religion, race, caste, sex, place of birth or any of them, be subject to any disability, liability, restriction or condition with regard to—
- access to shops, public restaurants, hotels and places of public entertainment; or
 - the use of wells, tanks, bathing ghats, roads and places of public resort maintained wholly or partly out of State funds or dedicated to the use of the general public.

The importance of hierarchy

“[F]or an Indian, superior and subordinate relationships have the character of eternal verity and moral imperative – (and the) automatic reverence for superiors is a nearly universal psycho-social fact.”

(S. Kakar, The Indian Psyche, New Delhi 1996)

Tradition vs. innovation

Societies change, but there are limits to change. Certain traits, which are the products of centuries of conditioning, do not change, and it is these that provide the distinct cultural label to a people. Others can be diluted or modified. Some new ones can, perhaps, be added, but they are mostly 'adds-on', scaffolding on a largely unalterable edifice. It is this combination of (mostly) the old, and something of the new, that people carry as their cultural baggage in the journey towards the future.

(P. K. Varma, Being Indian, New Delhi 2004)
