

PhD English Linguistics

Training Activities

(Attendance to) English Linguistics Advanced Research Seminar

- Mandatory task starting from the 2019/2020 school year
- Language: The language used in the seminar will be English, except the courses organised by the library of the faculty, which will be delivered in Spanish.
- Duration: 10 hours
- Schedule: semestre 1 or 2
- Control: Certificate of attendance and final report by the student (up to 1000 words), written in English, which shall include the main aspects discussed in the Seminar, applied to the PhD dissertation proposal. The report shall be signed by the tutor or supervisor, it shall be attached to the student's activity profile and shall be part of their annual monitoring report.
- Description: This activity will be carried out during the first or second semester of the PhD FT schedule and it aims to help students acquire advanced research skills which are not part of the training period, and which are related with the research to be undertaken. Courses organised by the library of the Faculty of Philology of the UCM may be offered.
- Outcome: Students will gain knowledge and access to advanced research strategies and resources. They will be able to independently use databases and computing resources available in the field of English Linguistics and related disciplines in order to build and disseminate knowledge personally developed.
