Part B. CV SUMMARY (max. 3500 characters, including spaces)

Dr. Stephan Moratti received his master in Clinical Psychology at the University of Konstanz, Germany in 2001. During his studies at the University of Konstanz he began his Cognitive Psychology training with an internship at the Max Planck Institute of Psychological Research, Munich, Germany in the group of Prof. Dr. Hommel (1997). After that, he had been working in the EEG-MEG laboratories of Prof. Dr. Thomas Elbert and Prof. Dr. Brigitte Rockstroh (Konstanz University). During his psychology career, he did an obligatory clinical training at the Clinic Bogenhausen, Munich, Germany (Neuropsychology, 1998). After finishing his Master in Clinical Psychology (2001), he did his PhD in the laboratory of Prof. Dr. Andreas Keil at Konstanz University, Germany. During his PhD he was invited to take part in research activities at the University of Georgia, Athens, USA (Prof. Dr. Brett Clementz, 2003). He also taught Prof Clementz's students in advanced MEG/ EEG analysis during this time. He was also member of the Committee of Student's Interests (international section) of the Society for Psychophysiological Research (SPR). In 2005 he obtained his doctoral degree in Clinical Psychology at the University of Konstanz with his research theses about the modulation of oscillatory brain responses by emotion. Afterwards, Dr. Stephan Moratti received a prestigious research fellow grant from the Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (German Research Foundation) and joined the Center of Magnetoencephalography of the Complutense University of Madrid, Spain in 2006. Thereafter, Dr. Stephan Moratti joined a Post-Doc position (2008) at the Polytechnic University of Madrid, Spain. In 2010 he received a prestigious Ramón y Cajal Research Fellowship at the Complutense University of Madrid (Departamento de Psicología Básica I). Since 2015 he is a full profesor of Psychology (Profesor Contratado) at the Complutense University of Madrid (Departamento de Psicología Experimental). He is also associate editor of the journal Psychophysiology.
