

UNIVERSIDAD COMPLUTENSE DE MADRID
Universidades Norteamericanas Reunidas

Brief Course Description

Statistics with Business Applications

The student will learn the statistical concepts and methods necessary to study, present and correctly interpret the quantitative information that occurs in the economic and business fields. Different statistical and mathematical models will be discussed, so a basic knowledge of mathematics is required. The students will approach the theoretical concepts using different practical cases in collaborative activities.